AIR PRINCESS LOST: COURTNEY LANDS IN SPAIN

SURVEYS SHOW FEASIBILITY OF BIG R. R. SPAN

Hard Blue Rock Found
A Depth of 25 Feet
Gives Foundation

Report that engineers and drillers for the Southern Pacific company and the Duncan & Harrelson company, have encountered 25 feet of hard blue rock lying over rock at a depth of 135 feet with the diamond drills which they have been using to test the foundation for the projected railroad bridge from Bull's Head to Army Point yesterday strengthened the belief here that the bridge is not only practical of being constructed, but that little, except the obtaining of War Department approval of the bridge plans now stands in the way of building of what will be the mightiest railroad span in the world and the greatest of all bridges of an character.

Ex-Policeman Is Still Operator

REDWOOD CITY, Sept. 3.—When a posse under Sheriff J. J. McGrath raided San Mateo county's "biggest still" on the Skyline Boulevard early today, they found that one of the two men whom they captured operating the huge illicit liquor plant was a former police officer.

He was G. W. Wittwer, 25, who had served on the Burlingame force for a year and had resigned eight months ago. Wittwer has known as one of the county's most promising young officers and police officials expressed regret at the time he resigned.

The other four arrested were: W. Ralston, Fred Bolianno, O. Monte and Joseph Pardon.

When the former officer left the force he announced that he was going to work on his uncle's hog ranch near Half Moon Bay. Officers at the giant still found a small army of hogs, which were kept to consume the old mash, they reported.

Sheriff McGrath said that the still had been in operation but a few days and that a lookout was kept on horseback to warn off raiding officers.

Constable A. A. Alstrom and City Treasurer I. R. Vaughn left Friday night for a fishing trip to Myers near Lake Tahoe. They will return Tuesday.

Ancient Redwood, 15 Million Years Old, Found In South

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 3.—Prima facie evidence that the California redwoods and "big trees" giants of the world's forests, are the seed of parent stock which attained unbelievable size in those early eons when the mastodon and brontosaurus ruled supreme in the changing crust of the earth, has just been discovered, according to an announcement by Clinton G. Abbott, director of the San Diego Museum of Natural History.

A fossilized front, unmistakably related to the present day sequoia sempervirens and sequoia gigantea, only living representatives of the species was found in cretaceous deposits on Point Loma, near San Diego. The age of the strata where the branch was unearthed is estimated at from 15 to 20 million years, geologists have agreed.

The front was classified as belonging to a variety of sequoia extinct from probably millions of years. Prehistoric shells and some fragments of what may prove to be fossilized bones were subjected to laboratory scrutiny also were collected in the vicinity.

A group of California scientists, including Ulysses S. Grant IV, grandson of the former President and now taking a post-graduate course in oil geology at Stanford University Leo G. Hartlein, paleontologist of the California Academy of Sciences, San Francisco, and Mr. Abbott are credited with the find. The field party was engaged on an investigation of the surf and wind-worn cliffs of Point Loma in furtherance of the original universal search for the original source beds of petroleum when the redwood front was disclosed by the stroke of a pick-axe.

The investigations are being continued here, but the interesting front, only known bit of reserved evidence of the colossal forefathers of the parked and zealously guarded redwood forests of this civilization, has been sent to San Francisco for closer scrutiny.

Former Wealthy Woman Is Found Dead In Store

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—At one time a famous beauty twice divorced from Nevada millionaires—Thursday she was found dead in the back room of a grocery store, where she is said to have been working as a clerk.

BRAKE TESTING WILL CONTINUE

Richmond police will resume the testing of automobile brakes Tuesday. Up to noon yesterday, approximately 900 cars had been tested during the week with the running of fanly brakes running around ten percent. Tests will be held from 4 to 6 o'clock on Tuesday.

Chief of Police Dan Cox stated yesterday that he was pleased with the way motorists responded to the tests. So great was the rush that an additional traffic officer was detailed to help in the tests.

In every city from Hayward to Richmond police and the Eastbay Safety Council have launched a campaign to smoke out automobile drivers who are navigating the streets and highways with brakes that will not stop the car.

Deficient brakes mean that the driver will receive a traffic citation in the same way as speeders and other traffic violators are cited. Good brakes win for the motorist a windshield sticker showing the fact and relieving him from any further interference by police during the campaign.

Cities in the drive are Oakland, Alameda, Piedmont, Hayward, San Leandro, El Cerrito, Albany, and Richmond.

BILLIONS GO ABOARD

The sentimental propagandists who are continually weeping over our indifference to Europe and its plight, and who believe that as a preliminary we should at once proclaim free trade, so that European products can come into this country, would do well to appreciate that while we are anxious to be sympathetic, if any hordes of unemployed are to walk the streets, we have a first-hand feeling, selfish perhaps, but human, that we would prefer to see European, rather than American workmen, put to such straits.

It is about time that professors and others, who in the safe security of monthly or yearly pay checks and far removed from business activities and distresses, should take another view of the facts. Last year we bought over a billion and a quarter dollars' worth of goods from Europe and paid ship owners of Europe one hundred and ten million dollars for freight. American tourists spent three quarters of a billion, of which amount one-third was left in France. Immigrant workmen in America to their relatives abroad sent three hundred and fifty millions of dollars, and during one year as a people we purchased over a half-billion dollars' worth of securities. So much for the whiners!

EIGHT GREAT ISSUES

Here are the eight great issues awaiting congress as the newspapers see it:

Mississippi flood control, farm relief, tax reduction, the so-called water power monopoly senatorial contests, naval appropriations, Boulder Dam, Muscle Shoals.

Notwithstanding the fact that congress thus has its work cut out, it is intimated that one or two members of congress have also made up their own list of issues.

After a younger man has made his first ringing speech he should buy the ring.

When the yellow streak begins to work out of some people they have a fit of the blues.

Europe calls us dollar chasers, but those who can't borrow them must chase them.

Some men are too intellectual to be intelligent.

A fortune awaits the inventor of a lifeboat that will float on a sea of trouble.

Maybe the reason the conference at Geneva failed is because Geneva is a wet town.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Rex Beach was born on September 2, when the Sun was merging his rays with those of Uranus, the planet of originality and of genius, and the Moon was in Gemini and in trine to Mercury and Venus, who were together in Libra. He was therefore endowed with great literary ability, for both Gemini and Libra are interested in literature.

A powerful Uranian vibration gave him an inventive and original turn of mind, and, since Uranus was in trine to Jupiter, promised him success and distinction through writing. His success in connection with the motion pictures is shown by the trine between the Sun and Neptune, ruler of drama and the motion pictures.

Like Mr. Beach, many Virginians take up the study of law, but if the opportunity to do so ever comes, they often turn from it to writing. They are born analysts and critics. They have good memories and like to quote from their favorite authors. They are interested in history and like to work out a philosophy of life that can be based upon events rather than abstract speculations. Being essentially practical, their object is to improve and perfect the conditions under which human life is carried on; they are more interested in what has been, and in what might be in circumstances, which may never materialize.

This is the birthday of Miss Jane Adams, the well-known social worker; Miss Dorothy Flexer, prima donna contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Maxine Pomada, who will take the part of Joe the Fat Boy in the dramatized version of "Pickwick" which opens at the Empire Theatre on Labor Day.

If it is your birthday, the stars promise you love and friendship through the coming year, but warn you to take care of your money.

Vigorous Health

What caused nightmares? Every now and then I seem to have the most terrible dreams. They disturb me greatly.

DISTRESSED
Nightmares are generally due to digestive disturbances, but may be due to subconscious fears. Often there is a combination of the two. However, if the necessary attention is given to the diet and the mind is kept in constructive channels, there should be no trouble. Care is observed not to overeat, especially at the evening meal. Complications should be simple and through massification practice. No tea, coffee, spices or condiments, smoked or pickled foods, fried foods or rich desserts are used. Some fasting may be required as a preliminary in order to rest the internal machinery. A couple of days should be enough.

THAT SCARF MODE
There's scarcely a dress, or ensemble, for that matter, coming to us from across the seas which doesn't flaunt a scarf of some kind.

Of the outdoor togs the scarf is an integral factor never overlooked or missed, but it is equally very much present on daytime dresses and even on evening frocks. It may be of the dress fabric—in fact, is very likely to be when it is accompanying an evening gown of printed chiffon or the printed indestructible chiffon voile; or it may be of a contrasting material, as is invariably the case when the dress material is plain, for it will sound the color note and often the print high note as well.

On some dresses it is frankly supplementary—a happy afterthought; on others it is so much a part of the gown that one almost suspects that the design was worked around it.

What Your FACE TELLS

©c. 1927- by Betty Morrison PSYD.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN NEARBY ARTISTIC WOMAN MARRIES VITAL TYPE MAN

What did they see in each other? That question has been asked very often. The attraction which draws many men and women together has puzzled some of our best thinkers. A still greater problem is—will the attraction hold? Will this couple ever be able to see things alike and harmonize in a home? Will they ever get along together? They may, but they are walking along with badly matched steps and the answer leaves little doubt.

This woman is high-strung, sensitive and artistically inclined. The husband is the "happy-go-lucky" physical type. Their natures and tastes are as far apart as the two poles. Neither can appreciate the excellent trait of the other. The man cannot be happy in his wife's world, which is refined, cultured and artistic, and she merely stands upon the threshold of his. She cannot laugh at her husband's practical jokes; so she saves her gaiety for other companions.

Knowledge From Books
Each thinks the other lives in a small world. Her nature calls for dainty food—his for substantial, and lots of it. He gets his knowledge from observation and conversation, she gets hers from books. He likes a cozy home, children and pets. She likes to travel, does not like children or home ties. The husband is lovable and likes to pet his wife, but when he says "I love you" and cautiously tries to caress her, she says "HANDS OFF."

His nature wears on her and she becomes a perpetual groucher. Jusses, nags, grows sarcastic and has regular tantrums. Consequently his business keeps him away from home most of the time. And it is then she broods over fancied wrongs and the marriage tie begins to slip.

Where folks differ so much they gradually drift apart. Not often does one continue to love for a very long time unless one receives love. It takes love to attract and hold love.

Happy married life depends upon harmony in the home. Harmony depends upon sympathy and understanding. Where types differ as widely as this couple, there will be much adjusting with little effect. Holding different opinions on nearly every subject, this husband and wife will find their greatest problem is to learn to understand and appreciate the fine qualities in each other.

The Smartest Thing My Dog Ever Did

My father disliked dogs and when I brought home a big St. Bernard one day he was almost frantic. "Get it out of here," he cried. "Why it wouldn't even make a good watch dog!"

In spite of all his yelling, I kept the dog.

The dog seemed to sense my father's dislike and he was always trying to get in my father's good graces.

One night, after we had the dog about a month, there started a big commotion in the living room accompanied by a lot of barking on the part of our dog. My father rushed down the stairs to see what the trouble was, just in time to see the form of man making a hurried exit through one of the windows with the dog right on his heels. We haven't been bothered with burglars since, and strange as it may seem, my father has a lot of affection in his heart now for our dog.

THE FIRST AUTO, with Barney Oldfield and Patsy Ruth Miller in a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
It is a bright summer afternoon in the year 1895; the farmers and their families from miles around have gathered to watch the famous trotting races that are taking place that week in the small, mid-western town of Maple City. The two favorites are Sloe Eyes and Blue Bell; the former owned by the town's leading citizen and keeper of the livery stables, Hank Armstrong. The final race is won by Sloe Eyes, but her owner's joy is short-lived when he searches the grandstand for his son, Bob, and cannot find him.

Still chuckling over Dave's mishap, Hank and the Mayor stood side by side consuming beer. But slowly the smile disappeared from Hank's face, and once more he turned to the Mayor with the old question on his lips.

"I wonder where Bob is," he began again.

"I reckon he's with my Rose," the Mayor smiled, looking up at Hank. "He usually is," he added, chuckling, draining his glass and then hurrying over to refill it.

Hank looked after his departing friend, the smile still on his face. But it was a mechanical smile—a strained smile that ill-befitted the grave eyes and the straight-forward face from which such a gleam of the flashy diamond brooches in the scarf could detract one lot of the honesty that gleamed thereon.

He set his glass down on the bar, sighing. Everyone in town had gathered to celebrate his victory except his own son. He was hurt. He stood for a moment longer, then slipped off toward the rear side door through which Sloe Eyes had vanished.

Out in the night air Hank breathed deeply, looking up into the clear, starlit sky. Then he crossed the vacant lot connecting the saloon and his own livery stable, following the well-beaten path. Within the neat and orderly stable a negro boy sat polishing harness buckles and oiling leather. A smaller negro was sweeping up.

As though all thoughts turned simultaneously in the same direction the procession began to move back towards the town. Women gathered to discuss households and children, and to pack up the picnic baskets. Children strolled through the dusty fields, sated now with their popcorn and peanuts. But the men—there was but one ultimate goal for them, providing there were no quarrelsome wives to say them nay. The saloon! For these were the days when beer and cheer rhymed with impunity, and the politics of the nation were settled over a brass rail. And so, thronging gaily up Main Street, the swinging doors welcomed the troop.

Within the cheer was flowing freely. A great keg of beer rested on the bar, spigot facing the customer's side. A medley of hands and glasses waved in mid-air. Hank and the Mayor stood side by side.

"Fill 'em up! It's Hank's party!" called out the Mayor, the contents of his own glass fast disappearing.

With a shout the crowd responded. Noddy, boisterous, happy, they all flocked round the keg again. The mirrored up before the bar, reflected in the long mirror that hung behind the mahogany. Over the mirror stretched a row of pictures—the pace-setting horses of the hour interspersed with such pugilistic celebrities as John L. Sullivan, Jake Kilrain and Jim Corbett, all in hey-day of their triumphs.

"Here's to Hank!" cried the Mayor, helping himself. Everyone raised his glass to drink.

"And Sloe Eyes, the gamest little mare in the country," appended Dave Doolittle whose habit, when it came to filling up his glass, were certainly not in keeping with his name.

With one accord the crowd turned towards the door. There stood Sloe Eyes, still before them, but now rubbed down and blanketed, led by a grinning negro. A mighty cheer rent the air. Hank smiled proudly as they drank the toast. And then the owner went over to his mare and led her to the rear, side door. The crowd again lined up, glasses refilled.

"You must a been gaw' awful fast, Hank!" exclaimed an awe-stricken yokel, as Hank returned to the side of the Mayor. "Hear as how the time for th' mile was two four."

Hank smiled and nodded confirmation, seconded by the Mayor: "You're right, Hank sure made fast time."

"I seen in th' papers," began a second countryman, "where two fellows rid bicycles from Cleveland to Toledo in seven hours. That was fast!"

At the mention of the word "bicycle" a little frown overcast the smiling features of Hank. The Mayor caught his breath and looked sympathetically at his friend. Dave, however, shook his head contemptuously.

"Don't believe it! Ain't no one kin go that fast," he sneered, looking defiantly at the purveyor of news. But the yokel merely smiled, raised his glass, and blew the foam from off the top. But whether from intent or accident the foam landed squarely in Dave's eyes much to the amusement of all present.

CHAPTER II
An early fall set in with rain sweeping the wide plains of the middle west. Without question Hank Armstrong had become Maple City's most popular citizen. He and Sloe Eyes hung up a new state trotting record. He brought further prominence to the town by winning at the Tri-State Meet.

And in the fall election he received eight votes for president, although it was said that his pal, the Mayor, voted twice. He was the opinion asked on everything from how to bandage the legs of a trotter to what the legislature would agree upon.

A rainy night brought the usual drug store crowds. In front of the drug store stood a group of idlers, watching a checker game. Over the stand hung a large picture of William Jennings Bryan, now in the throes of his first presidential campaign, with the motto: "16 to 1" printed underneath. Bentley lingered over the game, for the tables in the rear were all served with soda's now, and would be quiet for the time being. And as Bentley was no slouch of a checker player himself. But the quiet of the gathering was broken by the entrance of Hank, whose sartorial elegance was further enhanced by a long horse-blanket overcoat.

Better Facilities In Education Are Public Demand

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 3.—One of the big school problems which the State government must face during the next year and a half is the growing demand of the public for better facilities in higher education. It was announced by William John Cooper, State superintendent of public instruction. The public desire for educational advantages above the high school is constantly increasing, Cooper reported. The endowed colleges of the State are practically all full, he added, and every effort is being made to prevent undue congestion at the State University and its present branches.

Dear Old Souls Clings To Styles

In New York, as in all large cities you can see them, elderly ladies who still live and dress in the styles of their boyhood. Wild skirts supported by buckram, and plumed hats with large crowns, handbags shaped like carpet bags, high topped buttoned boots, veils, etc., are some of the items these oldtimers have failed to drop with the time. The materials worn by these dear old ladies prove that they lived in an age when quality meant style. A reef or two taken in their skirts and they would pass unnoticed in modern crowds. But to them old ways are best. Dear old souls whose eyes are closed to our modern ways of dressing, you are at least dignified in your old traditions.

What impression will our modern women who fail to ride with the tide of fashion create some twenty years hence? Will short-skirted and short-haired old ladies be the laughing stock of the new generation? One wonders. It is very difficult when one grows too old to care about copying styles to accept new ideas of dress. We can all remember among our friends chignon-women. Yet chignon died the day Irene Castle clipped her first lock. Time will tell whether the chignon shall return again. If long hair doesn't come in style again, a long-haired woman will be a curiosity fifteen years hence.

Schoolma's Must Now Hide Knees

GALLIPOLIS, (Ohio), Sept. 4.—Schoolma's must now show their dimpled knees in the Wheelersburg schools in the future, according to the edict handed out by the Board of Education of that town.

Whether the school teachers have been rather imprudent in the past in their mode of dressing was not stated by the austere members of the board, but they were straightforward in the wording of the contracts, just sent out to schoolma's.

In these the meaning was plain—teachers must wear gowns that reach below the knees when in or around school property.

"LONDON" IS FEATURE PLAY AT RICHMOND

The most elaborate film production of any of London's night clubs will be seen in "London" which comes to the Richmond theatre today. Thomas Barker's re-creation of Limehouse and Mayfair, produced by British National Pictures and released by Paramount with Dorothy Gish as its star, Herbert Wilcox directed.

For this production, the interior of the Kit-Cat Club is shown as the setting of a dramatic moment in which Miss Gish, John Mansers, Adelqui Millar and Annette Carson are the principals.

The fidelity with which the Kit-Cat has been reproduced was even extended to the Kit-Cat personnel. Film-goers will see, for the first time on any screen, Zozo, the pre-fading genius of the club, London's best known head-waiter. And you'll also see Paul Whitman and his famous band make their first film appearance. The close-up of his conducting is immense—the only adjective appropriate to Paul!

"London" is notable in that it's the best-dressed picture yet made in a British studio. The dresses for the Kit-Cat sequence and Mayfair episodes set entirely new standards in fashions. British National Pictures believe that these dresses are of such beauty that they will delight all film-goers, and take as definite a part in the success of "London" as its many exquisite settings.

Other film features include "The Humdinger" a Tuxedo comedy and a Grantland Rice "Sportlight." Coming Monday and Tuesday, Pola Negri, in "Barbed Wire."

Lions, tigers, jaguars, chimpanzees, gorillas, wild cats, leopards, elephant, bears, pheasant, reptiles, camels, various varieties of monkeys, hoars and hundreds of other animals all play a bit in the development of the story.

Olive Borden is cast in the leading role with Jacques Lerner, noted animal impersonator in the role of the talking monkey. Others in the cast are Jane Winton, Malcolm Waite, Raymond Hitchcock, Don Alvarado and August Toltz.

PEPPY OFFERING AT CALIFORNIA

Peppy is the main element to attract attention on the big five act bill of vaudeville at the California Theatre today, which combined with "The Monkey Talks," a mystery comedy drama, starring Olive Borden, forms an ideal double program.

Paris and French, two colored boys, start the ball rolling with their routine of fast stepping specializing in eccentric numbers that are the last word in the terpsichorean jazz art.

The Holland Duo offer Music Supreme. A dainty Miss Vocalizing the old favorites with some up to the minute numbers and her male partner indulging his audience with selections on the violin.

A company of seven artists some of the youthful age present School Days, a remainder of Graduation Day. A singing, talking comedy dancing revue with the setting a country schoolhouse.

Each of the artists offer a solo in their particular line of endeavor and also present ensembles at the start and close of the act.

Travesty moments with Hyde and Williams is a laugh from start to finish. It is seldom two female artists can team up in an act of this kind but for burlesque of the wholesome order these girls are hard to beat.

The show closes with The Whirling Duo introducing some new stunts on skates. Acrobatic tricks of the sensational order are their specialty.

OAKLAND FUEL PUMP POPULAR WITH MOTORIST

The motor driven fuel pump on the new Oakland All American Six has attracted the interest of scores of visitors at the show rooms of George Olson, local Oakland-Pontiac dealer.

"In introducing the motor driven fuel pump the Oakland Motor Car Company is adding a notable chapter to its already impressive history as sponsor of important engineering advances," said Olson. "The pump, an original feature of the new automotive creation, replaces the vacuum tank system and effectually eliminates the uncertainties of fuel supply under all conditions. Hundreds of test installations have not revealed a single failure.

"The fuel pump installed on the Oakland All American Six combines simplicity, efficiency and durability, assuring a steady and adequate supply of gasoline under any and all driving conditions throughout the life of the car. The engine's speed determines the speed of the pump's action, so that never, either on steep hills or at rapid paces on level road, is there a possibility of interrupted fuel supply.

"The secret of the pump's simplicity and freedom from wear lies in the small number of moving parts. There is a flexible, non-metallic diaphragm, actuated by the lever as this lever rides up on the engine camshaft. The pulsations of the diaphragm alternately draw pure strained gasoline into the pump chamber and force it out to the carburetor, two simple and everlasting check valves being interposed in the line to keep the fuel moving in the right direction. The faster the motor turns, the faster the pump works, so that the supply of fuel is always in direct ratio to the needs of the engine. A highly efficient fuel filter, with double

Car Overhaul Economy Offer Now Made By Harry Golden

An automatic electric cylinder reboring outfit has been added to the excellent equipment maintained by the Harry G. Golden company, exclusive Chevrolet dealers for Richmond and vicinity. The machine was set up in Golden's "Golden Rule Service" shop last week and has been largely patronized as a distinctive development of one of the largest automotive tool makers in America.

While this new machine has been particularly signed for use on Chevrolet motors, it is adjustable to fit practically any size motor in use today. Many local garage owners and repair men have called to inspect this machine and all marvel at the accurate jobs it turns out.

In order to introduce this new machine to Chevrolet owners in this community, the Golden company is making a special offering for the next 30 days, enabling all Chevrolet owners to save exactly $5 on the cost of any motor overhaul job. As this is the season of the year for the largest volume of motor reconditioning, it is expected that a large number of Chevrolet owners will take advantage of this opportunity to save $5.

Special arrangements have been made for the next 30 days to offer exceptionally easy time payments on motor overhaul jobs. Details on this plan can be secured by consulting Golden's shop superintendent.

Screen of fine mesh, is built as a unit with pump and this equipment supplements the work of the air cleaner and oil filter in excluding dust, water and grit from the motor's interior.

Riding Comfort Now Stressed As Distinctive In Nash Models

Among the many distinctive features of the 21 new models just introduced by Nash, is the unusual degree of riding comfort derived from the improved cars. This is attributed by H. P. Houghton, Inc., local dealers, to the secret process alloy steel springs which have been brought to a high degree of perfection by Nash engineers.

These springs are a departure from the usual in that they are individually designed to the weight and size of each model offering scientific resistance to road shocks and eliminating guesswork as to their effectiveness on all types of roads.

There are actually nine different types of Nash springs in all. These types were developed for cars in nine different classifications of weight, center of gravity, etc.

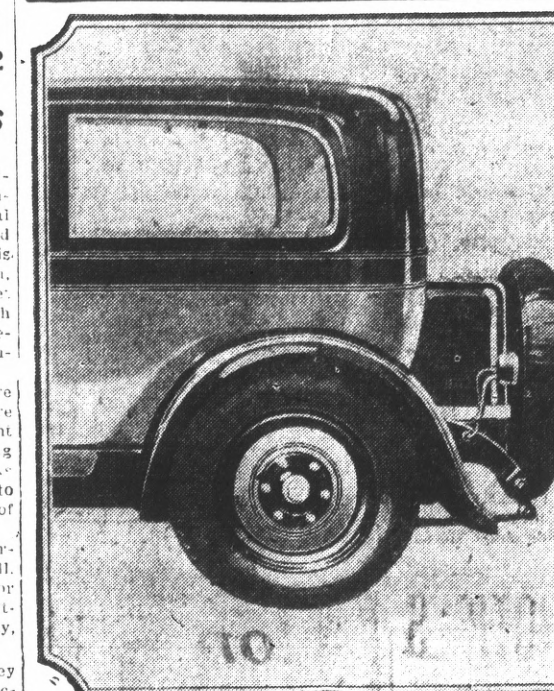

The alloy steel from which they are constructed is made by a secret process which produces a metal perfectly suited for the purpose of absorbing shocks.

The spring action in the new Nash cars is said to duplicate in effect the action of the highest priced shock absorbers on the market.

In designing these springs, Nash engineers succeeded in overcoming all of the various types of riding discomfort so common over modern roads, even including the annoying section joints in concrete.

Because of the remarkable results obtained with the new springs, the Nash Motor company recently conducted a national "Come Drive" week, to give as many people as possible a chance to try the riding qualities of the new cars. During this period Nash dealers throughout the country kept demonstrators on hand so that anyone who cared to drive one of the new models would be able to take a test ride.

DISTINCTIVE STYLES

Designers sought distinction in their creations for the new Nash line of twenty-one models just introduced. The illustration shows a remarkable example of harmony in contour, achieved in the Special Six, and Advanced Six, four-door sedans. The trunk, shaped to the body curve, is a notable feature.

During the period in which these tests were made by the public, Nash sales reached a total in July over seventy percent greater than July, 1926. Orders received at the factory for August make it certain that this month will be the greatest single month in the history of the company.

Fast Duty Truck Now Wins Praise

By President of General Motors
DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 3.—Passing around slow moving trucks, cost motorists a great deal of money yearly in addition to having them lose the pleasure derived from motoring.

The question is one that many state highway officials are studying. Public officials and motorists are elated with the introduction of fast duty six-cylinder trucks, from reports we have received. The truck users, in many cases, appreciate what it means to have one of his trucks cause no more delays, hold up a long line of passenger car drivers and generally throw the morale of either business or pleasure driving askew.

Fast duty trucks with a six cylinder passenger car comfort and smoothness had to come. That they will make motoring on the highways a greater pleasure in addition to solving many problems for the truck owners, is assured.

It is with satisfaction that we view the interest taken by state highway officials in these trucks. Recently in one of the large southeastern states where we sent a truck caravan through that commonwealth, observers from the State Highway Commissioner's office rode our trucks to see just how far the claims we have made that they would not impede traffic, was correct. They were pleased, praised the riding qualities as well as the braking mechanism of the vehicles they rode.

Scientists Strive To Make Auto And Trains Cooler

Automobiles of the future will have white roofs along with railroad trains and homes while each will carry a wet sheet a strip of ramp burlap or some other cooling device for combating the extreme heat of torrid zones or seasons, if elaborate ventilation tests being conducted in the U. S. Bureau of Mines in Pittsburgh mean anything.

Leading engineers in the motor car industry and officials of several of the big railroads are giving their active cooperation in experiments which seek to make transportation of all kinds, as well as home and school life, more comfortable and healthful by mechanically controlling the air and climate conditions of Mother Nature.

The Southern Pacific and other western railroad lines have offered the use of several cars for the experiments and will haul these cars with scientific apparatus through the hot sections of Arizona and Southern California in efforts to bring relief from the suffocating heat. The Pennsylvania has offered the use of its equipment after the scientists complete their tests in the laboratory.

That colors have definite reactions not only on the psychology of people but do deflect or absorb the heat of the sun's rays has been definitely established by these tests, according to F. C. Houghton, director of the air research laboratory of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers in the Pittsburgh bureau of mines. Houghton and his staff tested the effect of colors on roofs of buildings and automobiles and found that while black absorbs the heat and draws it within, white, more than any other color, deflects the heat. In these tests they were aided by the newly devised heat meter, which is so delicate that it will measure the warmth of a maiden's

RECORD SALES PREDICTED FOR HUDSON-ESSEX

No indication of a fall drop in the sales of Hudson-Essex models has evinced itself, and there is every reason to believe that the record previously established by Ernie Douglas, local dealer, will continue to mount according to J. A. Johnson, manager.

"While spring months are normally the heaviest in sales of cars in most places," Johnson said, "there are many reasons why this fall should see brisk buying of the new super-sizes here in Richmond. One of them is brisker business generally about this time of the year."

"Another reason is that, to many Richmond motorists, the open road is more alluring at this season of the year than at any other, but the greatest reason of all is the fact that we are offering brand-new models in the Essex super-six, and on 118-inch wheelbase and 127-inch wheelbase in the Hudson line."

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

When Buick improves upon Buick —the standard for the year is set

Buick for 1928 introduces a higher standard of beauty and luxury than the world has ever known. Buick interiors are as modish as exquisite drawing-rooms—as harmoniously colored—and as comfortable. Buick's new Fisher bodies are low-swung without any loss of head-room or road-clearance.

And so, down to the smallest detail of construction, wherever refinements could be made, Buick made them. Again Buick has improved upon Buick. Again the standard for the year is set.

PITTSBURG AND
LOCALS MEET TO BREAK TIE

Pittsburg and Richmond baseball teams meet today to break their share of a three-cornered tie for leadership in the Three-C League of Contra Costa county.

At the same time Concord, tied with Richmond and Pittsburg for first place, meets the Kunhardt Candy outfit, which is tied with Antioch for second place in the league.

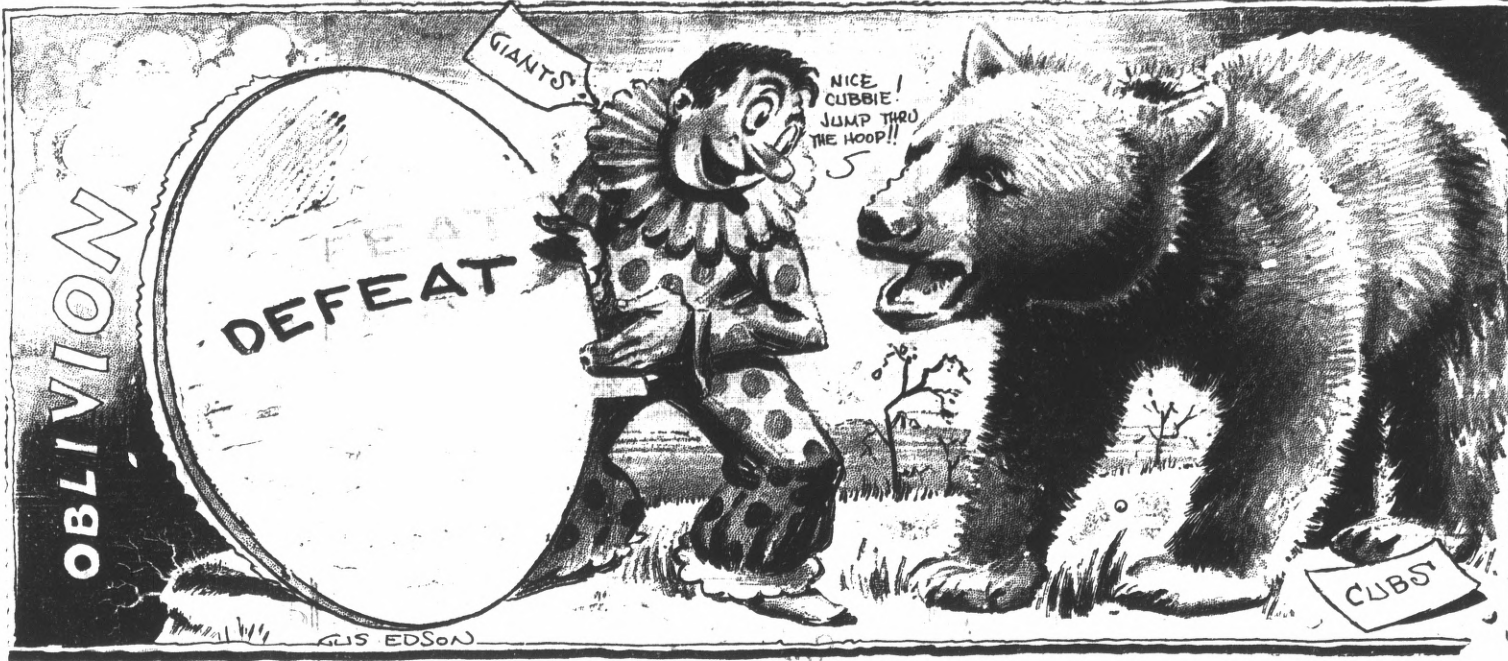

The Pittsburg-Richmond game is expected to be the thriller of the day. With both teams about evenly balanced and playing in top form, picking a winner is hard. To hard fighting Pittsburg nine has been working overtime at practice, and believes it can put over a win, but the Richmond ball players claim the same for themselves.

While Antioch is meeting a cellar-place team, it won't have things all its own way, for hard luck, more than poor playing, has held down the Martinez nine. Concord will not have everything its own way either. The Kunhardts have beaten Concord before, and may easily do it again.

With the league approaching its ninth week of play, Richmond, Concord and Pittsburg have won five and lost three games. Antioch and the Kunhardt Candies have won four and lost four and Martinez has won four and lost seven games.

It begins to look as though two of the three teams now tied for first will continue in a deadlock

Golden Bear Frosh Turn Out
200 Strong For Grid Work

BERKELEY, Sept. 3.—In spite of the fact that Pacific Coast Conference rules prohibit practice before September 15, two hundred University of California variety and freshman football candidates will turn out, in uniform, at the Memorial Stadium here at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Wednesday, September 14.

But while the Golden Bear grid-ders will be out one day ahead of the dead-line set by the conference, no rules will be broken. For the entire afternoon will be devoted to photographers, newsreel men and newspapermen, with no practice held.

"The cameramen and sports writers will be the bosses, not me," is Price's declaration.

Heretofore it has been customary for photographers and newspaper men to get their material on September 15, the first day of practice. But faced with the dilemma of giving the cameramen and sport writers the opening day, and at the same time with but twelve hours of actual practice in which to whip together a team for the first game of the season with Santa Clara on September 24, Coach "Nibs" Price cut the Gordian knot by calling a special turnout for September 14.

Although the freshmen have their regular practice sessions on Hilgard Field, Coach "Brick" Mitchell will take his hundred-odd first-year footballers up to the stadium for the special turnout. Price also has approximately a hundred aspirants for the Varsity squad.

First-of-the-season football turn-outs at the University of California usually draw a gallery, among others, of seven or eight moving-picture men, twenty photographers and an equal number of sports writers.

Although last season was the most disastrous that the California football team has ever experienced, all estimates indicate that the number of candidates out for the team this year will be greater than at any other time in the history of the university.

THAT FOURTH ROUND AT PHILLY

When fingers are pointed in the pugilistic industry, invariably they are directed suspiciously at the fourth round of the Tunney-Dempsey fight at Philadelphia.

You recall that fourth round. Dempsey clipped Tunney on the Adam's apple with a right hand punch and Tunney, according to observers and cameras, clutched at the ropes. He was ripe for a kayo, so they say.

Dempsey failed to follow up his advantages and Tunney got to the center of the ring unmolested.

The boys have never stopped chattering about that. They said that Tunney was badly hurt or he wouldn't have grabbed the ring ropes for support. They read several meanings into Jack's failure to end it with a punch right there.

Jimmy Bronson, who handled Tunney in that fight, scoffs at the stories which have been broadcast.

"Tunney hurt? Maybe," says Bronson, who goes on to explain what actually occurred in the fourth round.

"All through that fight Tunney had rated himself along, after taking the fight out of Dempsey in the opening round. "I was taking no chances of Dempsey getting home a desperate left hand punch, for I knew that Dempsey could hit. So Tunney was circling to the right of Dempsey all night long.

"That meant that Tunney moved to his own left, to keep away from Dempsey's left. Get me?"

"In the fourth round, Dempsey clipped him. Tunney started to move out of danger but he MOVED TO THE RIGHT.

"In a flash Gene realized that he was walking right into the path of Dempsey's murderous left hand.

"Another step and he might have been right in line for that left hand punch.

"To check his movement, he grabbed at the rope, pulled himself to a complete stop and backed out, almost simultaneously, to the left. The pictures show that he wasn't dazed by the punch and that he was looking at Dempsey's left hand. He knew what to expect from that hand.

"It happened in a flash. Tunney had stopped himself and backed out to the left before Dempsey was poised to hit.

"It was the fastest bit of thinking I have ever seen in a ring, but instead of complimenting Tunney on his coolness in a tough spot, they have seized on that particular example of fast thinking and twisted it into a thousand different versions."

LOCAL FIREMEN AND CARMEN TO BATTLE TODAY

The Firemen and Carmen will cross bats today at First street park. The two teams, rivals of long standing, have met many times in the past. Today's game is a return asked by the Carmen who lost the last game by a score of 7 to 4.

As many of the Carmen were on vacation at that time the team was not its regular strength and the Carmen now feel that they will have a better chance in today's game.

The Firemen have been playing good ball and look forward to annexing another victory today. Krumb will take the mound for the Firemen and Grady will catch. The batteries for the Carmen will be Nemeth and O'Loan.

STATE FAIR AT SACRAMENTO IS TOURIST LURE

With the opening of the seventh annual State Fair at Sacramento and continuing until September 10th, motorists of the bay district south of the two mighty bridges—the Carquinez and Antioch—are expected to form a continuous caravan over the two week-ends at least.

Those who travel by auto have discovered new delights in "crossing the water on wheels" and in making the circuit of "loop trip" with Sacramento as the apex, going by one of the bridges and returning by the other.

The recent completion of a 12-mile stretch of paving south of Rio Vista to the north bridge head of the Antioch structure gives the bay district motorists a continuous paved highway all the way to the State capital and thru a country of charming beauty, banking as it does the great river and piercing the most productive agriculture land in all California. This route along the Victory Highway has been aptly called "the garden route" and is one of unending delight.

Returning via the Carquinez Bridge the motorist crosses the famous Yolo causeway—one of the longest in the country and costing $1,000,000 to construct—swings through Davis where the University of California agricultural branch is located, thence into Dixon, Vacaville with its acres of luscious fruits which have given fame to the Vaca Valley, Fairfield, Cordelia, Vallejo one the capital of California and the site of the great Mare Island Navy yard. To those where time is not entirely essential a visit to the navy yard is inspiring.

King's Heralds To Hold Last Meet Of Conference Year

The King's Heralds will hold their last meeting of this conference year Sunday morning after Sunday School in the Beginners' room of Wesley Church.

Those who have money in their mite boxes and thank offering card are asked to bring it without fail.

All who are going to turn in an extra amount to get a sticker and 150 extra credit on the Contest should be sure to do so at Sunday's meeting.

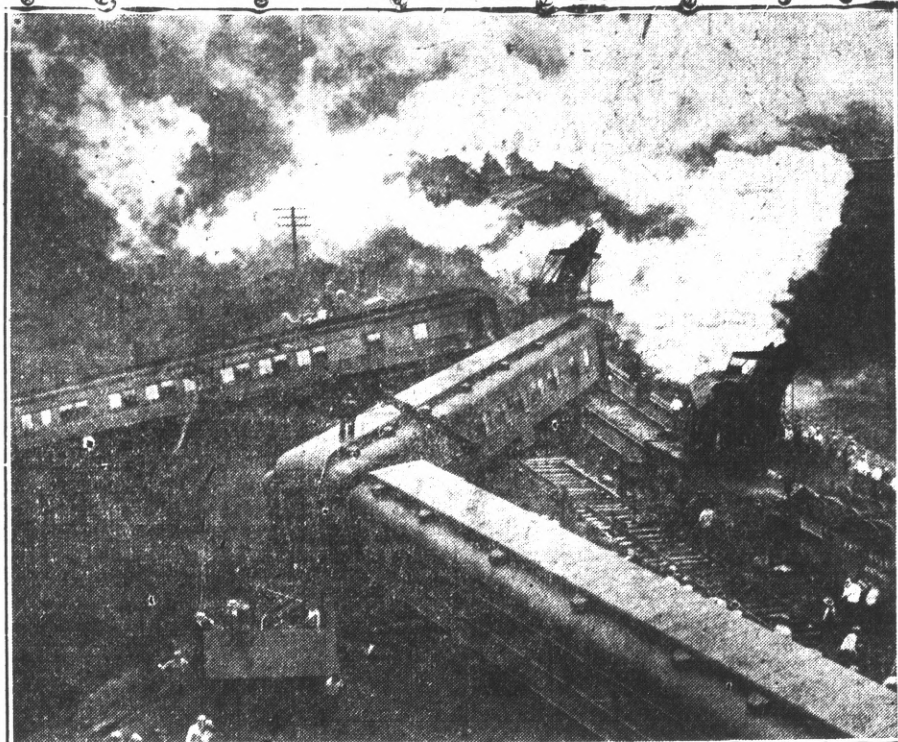

The Heralds are all asked to complete, if at all possible, all of the requirements of their stamp book on which they are working so as to help their band increase in number on the Honor Roll. Then, too, the Missionary Society will give a party to all Heralds who are on the Honor Roll.

The Heralds who have not all of the stickers in their stamp books should either bring their books Sunday or know exactly which stickers they have in their books at the present time and the number of books that they have as books and stickers will be given out Sunday to all those that have earned them providing that there is enough time after all of the other year's business is completed.

Rubba, my dog, was enjoying himself immensely when he saw a little dog struggling in the water. He swam out to him quickly and not seeing him on the surface dived under. Seizing him by his hide he swam quickly, holding him firmly by the collar, amid the cheers of the people, he brought him to shore. Rubba got a two-inch steak from the dog's owner.

The Mysterious Rear End

The rear end or differential, seems to be a profound mystery to the average car owner, though it really needs very little attention unless one breaks an axle or runs out of lubricant. The common practice is to add more lubricant with never a thought of the terrific work the master and pinion gears are constantly doing. The lubricant in the rear end should be changed every three or four thousand miles and inspected at least once a month. A howling in the differential should receive immediate attention for it may cause you big expense by breaking down under most embarrassing circumstances.

SALMON RUN ON SACRAMENTO IS IN FULL SWING

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Salmon are running again on the Sacramento River as a result of the completion of the new fishway installed by the Anderson-Cottonwood Irrigation District at the dam maintained by the district at Redding.

Delay was occasioned in the construction of the fishway which halted the run of salmon for quite a while. However the difficulties encountered which included high water and underground water have been taken care of, and salmon are flashing through the pools on their way up the river to spawn.

The fishway which is a series of pools built of concrete and steel, gradually rising from the bed of the river to the top of the dam at one side, was built as the result of an agreement entered into with the directors of the district and the Fish and Game Commission.

Salmon do not eat when starting up the river to spawn and nothing but death will stop them. They make, at times, phenomenal leaps to get over obstacles that may be in their path. The fishways such as the one just completed at Redding for power or agricultural purposes.
